

BREAKAWAY SPORTS

Centennial, Colorado

City and County Planning Agencies can be difficult arbitrators when it comes to Building Design. This project is certainly such a case.

The Developer, Anxon, Inc., had a limited budget to get this project constructed. Wilkus Architects was able to design a project that met both the City's stringent development requirements and still meet the developers tight budget restraints.

